Building Proposal Denied

A plan to develop a 12.8-acre site above the Wistaria Vine parking lot was turned down by the City Council Tuesday night.

The developers, Gale Hersey and Robert Michaels of Arcadia Investment Co., requested a zone change from R-1-15 (15,000 square feet) to R-1-11 (11,000 feet). Specifically, however, the builders want to construct homes on lots 80 feet wide instead of 90. This would permit them to build 23 homes in this area instead of 19.

The Council turned down the request, which was an appeal from the Planning Commission, by a vote of 3-2. Councilmen Wester Vannier, William Lisle and Mayor Charles James voted against the request, while Councilman Milton Emerson and James Abernethy voted for it.

MR. HERSEY, whose home borders the site, said it would be economically unfeasible for him to build if the zone change is not granted.

He displayed colored slides and photographs showing developments on either side of Sierra Madre, in Arcadia and upper Hastings Ranch, which have been divided into smaller lots than those required under this city's Zoning Ordinance.

He argued, in addition, that the development as he and Mr. Michaels planned it would be an asset to the city and would not be detrimental to surrounding properties.

If permitted to build on 80-foot lots, Mr. Hersey also said he would build an access road to the crib dam in Floral Canyon which would permit either the city or the County Flood Control District to remove the debris from it.

THE DAM is now completely full and is useless as a flood control device. There currently is a disagreement over who is responsible for its maintenance—the city or the county. It was built immediately after the flood and fire of 1953.

Also speaking in favor of Mr. Hersey's proposal was Paul Carter, a former city councilman and the grand-son of the founder of Sierra Madre. Mr. Carter, who now lives in Wilmette, Ill., owns property adjacent to the site.

Civic Club Wins Five Awards at District Meeting

Sierra Madre Civic Club will receive five awards today when Verdugo District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, meets for its third annual convention at Huntington Sheraton Hotel.

Mrs. Edward N. Chapman, president, will accept the press book contest, community improvement, health and welfare, home crafts and youth conservation awards in behalf of the local club.

Mrs. Franklin A. Franco, Sierra Madre Woman's Club president, will accept the art award for her club.

Annual PTA Carnival Set May 2

The annual Sierra Madre PTA Carnival will be held on Saturday, May 2, from 12 noon to 6:30 p.m. at the Sierra Madre School playground.

Cliff and Dottie Stowell, ways and means chairman, announced that pre-sale discount ticket books are available from room mothers or by contacting Louise Barbour at ELgin 5-3012.

There will be a white elephant and bazaar booth sponsored by the second-grade mothers at Sierra Madre School.

Anyone wishing to donate new or white elephant items may contact Dorothy Mitchell at ELgin 5-7502 or Velma Embree at ELgin 5-6409.

The "Tin Lizzie Quartet," local musical combo, will be on hand to serenade and play dance music.

WHITE ELEPHANT SALE

The Consers Group of the Sierra Madre Congregational Church will meet in the woman's parlor at the church on Tuesday, April 21, at 8 p.m. It will be the annual White Elephant Auction with Bette Burr as auctioneer.

Charges involving estrangement of affection, incompetence and the improper keeping of records were leveled against Bethany Home for Girls at a public hearing before members of the City Council Tuesday night.

City Administrator Lawrence C. Bevington and Police Chief Gordon MacMillan have recommended that the home be denied a license to operate, a move which would put the girls' institution out of business in Sierra Madre.

The hearing will be continued at the next Council meeting, April 28, at which time Monte C. Fiscus, acting chairman of the home's Board of Directors, will be given an opportunity to answer charges.

MR. BEVINGTON read a number of letters at the Council meeting which he had received from the County Probation Department, the State Department of Social Welfare, a former home staff member, a Pasadena minister, and others.

The County Probation Department said it had removed girls from Bethany, primarily because the staff is not qualified.

The State Department of Social Welfare reported that complaints had been received about the home, but that the department had not made a thorough investigation.

There is no state or county body, incidentally, which has jurisdiction over the home since only girls of 16 and above are admitted. Consequently, the problem of licensing rests solely with the City of Sierra Madre.

Possibly the most damaging charges were made by Dr. Edward B. Hart, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church in Pasadena.

"I WAS one of the original supporters of the home," said Dr. Hart, "but since it was opened conditions have developed which I am reluctant to believe exist."

He said he met recently with the parents of a girl in the home who complained that their daughter was being estranged from them. The next day, he added, he met with "three or four" other parents, all of whom had the same complaint.

"I met with Miss Thomas (Miss Peggy Thomas, director of the Home)," he said, "and talked over the situation with her. But conditions worsened instead of improving."

He also alleged that financial records were not properly audited.

Another letter of complaint was received by the Council from Mrs. George Morgan, a staff member at the home for four years.

SPEAKING in defense of the home, in addition to Mr. Fiscus, was Celia Galer, a present staff member.

"We haven't received any complaints from the girls who have been in our care," said Miss Galer. "They write us letters and they come to us asking for help."

She added that the charges which had been made against Miss Thomas were completely without foundation.

"Miss Thomas," she said, "has been under a doctor's care and is being treated for an ulcer."

G. NORMAN KENNEDY, a local attorney who spoke as a private citizen and is not representing the home, said:

"Not one of these letters would stand a cross examination by a lawyer. This is defamation of character by public hearing and innuendo. I'm shocked by this sort of thing."

City Attorney Charles Martin called the charges "rank hearsay," adding that it is incumbent upon the city to prove that the home should not be granted a license.

MISS THOMAS, who did not attend the hearing but was contacted by the Sierra Madre News yesterday morning, denied all allegations.

"This is a personal problem," she said, "and is not suited for public discussion. We've been in Sierra Madre four years and there have been no complaints against us on the part of the city. The girls still keep coming back to us and writing to us."

In reply to "estrangement" charges, Miss Thomas said:

"You have to realize that many of our girls were estranged from their parents when they came to us."

She added that the difficulty started when dissension developed among members of the Board of Directors and created a problem, which, she said, should have been settled privately.

THE HOME is located at 72 W. Alegria and has facilities for 20 girls and four staff members. Currently, however, there is only one girl there. Most of the girls who have been cared for are from broken homes.

It is a private institution, not associated in any way with Bethany Church or any other religious organization. Physically the home is said to be in excellent condition.

Daws, Englert Victors in Club Tennis Match

William Daws and Robert Englert were winners Sunday in the open doubles tournament sponsored by the Sierra Madre Tennis Club.

The winning duo defeated Peter Cowell and Ken Sheets by scores of 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

There were 20 players in the tournament, 17 club members and three non-members.

Council OKs New Street, Rezoning Plan

A new street and further development of the business block between Sierra Madre Blvd. and Esperanza was approved by the City Council at its meeting Tuesday night.

Specifically, the Council authorized the city engineer to prepare plans under the 1903 act, the first step toward the construction of a street from Baldwin half-way through the block to Hermosa. The street would exit on Esperanza.

Council action came after the plans prepared by Simon Eisner and Associates had been approved.

UNDER THE 1903 act, the city can obtain land, either through condemnation or by the acquisition of easements, to build a street so long as 51 per cent of the property owners in the area agree. The cost is then divided among those who benefit.

All the property owners in the business district involved have agreed to the plan, with the exception of Carl Hansen, owner of Hansen's Ford Agency. Part of the street, if finally approved, will be on his property.

The Council also agreed to change the zoning in the area from Commercial to R-3 when the street is completed. This would permit John Rasmussen, owner of Rasmussen Appliances, to construct multiple-unit housing on property he owns behind his store. Others who own property in this area presumably could do the same.

The hearing on the Rasmussen zone change application was continued until the Council meeting of April 28. It probably will be continued until final plans for the new street are completed.

'Julius Caesar' Is Library Film This Monday

"Julius Caesar," the first full-length sound film version of this Shakespearean play, will be shown in the Library Gallery next Monday evening at 7 and 8:30 o'clock.

Sponsored by Friends of the Sierra Madre Public Library, the film stars Charlton Heston in the title role. The Shakespearean dialogue has been kept almost intact.

Admission is free.

R. A. Hawks Sells Stock in Local Firm

Richard A. Hawks, founder and president of Sierra Engineering, has disposed of all his stock in the company and plans to retire to his ranch outside Hemet, it was reported yesterday.

Harry Daulton, formerly vice president and general manager, has been appointed president. Aaron Bloom, chief engineer, has been named vice president.

Mr. Hawks' decision reportedly was influenced by a heart ailment for which he has been under treatment for several months.

Mr. Hawks' 18-year-old son, Michael, died March 17 in Redlands Community Hospital, the victim of poison which he apparently accidentally swallowed during an experiment. He was a student at the University of Redlands at the time of his death.

Officers of Pro-School Tax Group Chosen

Yes, the Youth Education Support Committee, is the newly-organized citizens' group, pledged to work for the passage of the school tax increase at the special election on May 19.

This committee of volunteers held its first official meeting on Wednesday, April 8, for the purpose of organizing.

JACK DEWAR was elected chairman, with Mrs. Claude H. Brown Jr. as co-chairman. Mrs. Milton Emerson and Mrs. Wayne Hartwell were elected secretary, and T. A. D. Fessenden, finance chairman.

The other committee chairmen are: information, Mrs. William Waite and Ralph Rule; speakers' bureau, Mrs. David Wood; area coverage, Mrs. Milton Emerson and Mrs. Wayne Hartwell, with Roy Pickett, Kenneth Moyer, Mrs. William Kendrick and Mrs. Virgil Nordyke as sub-chairmen; and special projects, Mrs. William Preston.

During the preliminary planning at this meeting, Mr. Dewar said:

"We must educate our children now for tomorrow. This committee, chairmen and workers alike, is devoted to the passage of the school tax increase in order to insure the very best quality of education for the children of Sierra Madre."

AT THE second meeting of the committee, on April 15, information booklets were read for distribution to workers and campaign plans completed.

All citizens who are interested in working for the tax increase, in one capacity or another, are urged to call Mrs. Emerson, ELgin 5-0874, Mrs. Hartwell, ELgin 5-0983, or either of the two committee co-chairmen.

Mrs. Barrett FDR Dinner Coordinator

Appointment of Mrs. Newell Barrett, 425 N. Canon Dr., Sierra Madre, as Sierra Madre-Arcadia-Monrovia coordinator for the 1959 Franklin Delano Roosevelt dinner at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, Friday, April 24, has been announced by State Sen. Richard Richards and Mrs. Lorenzo Spencer, dinner co-chairmen.

Mrs. Barrett will be responsible for coordinating all of the three-city area participation in the dinner, which is expected to attract a capacity audience of 1,500 persons to the hotel's international ballroom.

Guest speaker for the $15-a-plate affair will be United States Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Editorials

Suffer in Silence

Last week I attempted a bit of satire in an editorial on Mr. Anthony Pinelli.

Although satire is always subject to misinterpretation, particularly when used in a newspaper, the piece was on the whole well received. A few people, though, misunderstood and thought I was being serious.

One lady, whose voice over the telephone was quivering with indignation, became abusive and accused me, among other things, of being a Red because, she said, I was supporting the Mafia (whatever that is) and "everybody knows the Mafia is Communist."

THIS WAS a new thought to me, since I had always assumed racketeers and the Mafia represent the opposite of Communism. Racketeers, in fact, are engaged strictly in private enterprise, illegal enterprise to be sure, but unquestionably private.

There is in this country a sort of left-handed (no political implications, please) admiration for the top racketeers. They are regarded with awe by many of us, possibly because they represent the strong, tough and ruthless characters we are indirectly taught to admire via television and other means of communication.

The private eye of television and fiction, for example, is almost completely devoid of compassion and in mental outlook is indistinguishable from the gangster.

Racketeers also are assumed to have vast sums of cash lying about. They are believed to invest their ill-gotten gains in real estate and in any other enterprise that is profitable. They are undoubtedly clever, many of us believe, because they seldom get caught.

Racketeers exist in this country with the aid and comfort of officialdom and private citizens, all of whom either are hoodwinked or profit by the illegal operations of the swindler, the con man, the extortionist, the labor hoodlum.

THIS SECRET admiration for the racketeer makes the jobs of the better governmental officials, the superior police departments, the honest councilmen and mayors, well nigh impossible so far as racketeers are concerned.

And so long as this attitude exists, newspaper "exposures" of hoodlums and hearings by anti-crime groups will do very little good.

We could, if we had the desire, wipe out nearly all organized crime in a matter of months. But until the desire is there, we can do little more than suffer or admire—whichever the case may be—in silence. —H.W.E.

That's Baseball

Any baseball fan can tell you the number of home runs Mickey Mantle belted last year or the salary of Ted Williams. But can he tell you who wore the first baseball glove? Or what player was the first to catch a ball dropped from the Washington Monument?

Statistics will be flying thick and fast now that the baseball season is here. But for those who really want to impress their wives or girl friends, here are some baseball facts, compiled by the research department of The World Book Encyclopedia.

THE FIRST clash between a player and his arch-enemy—the umpire—occurred June 19, 1846, when the Knickerbocker Club of New York played the New York Baseball Club at Elysian Fields in Hoboken, N. J. A player named Davis was fined six cents for cursing. The umpire was Alexander Cartwright, a leading player for the Knicks, who had chosen to umpire instead.

That game was also the first instance of team baseball as we know it. The New York club won 23 to 1 after four innings.

The Knickerbocker Club, formed in 1845, was the first regular baseball organization. And in their season, the members donned blue and white uniforms to become the first team uniformly outfitted.

A BREACH of baseball etiquette made Al Reach the first paid ball player. In 1864, it was considered unethical for a player to "jump" from one team to another. Reach, however, deserted the Brooklyn Atlantics when he was offered money by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Five years later, the Cincinnati Red Stockings turned professional and became the first salaried team.

In those days, baseball was far from the gentlemanly game the Knickerbockers had played. A player might leave the field bleeding or unconscious after stopping a fast ball, but he refused to baby himself by wearing protective equipment.

IN 1875, however, Charles Waite, first baseman for Boston, put on a glove—flesh-colored, so the fans wouldn't notice it. A. G. Spalding finally wore a dark brown glove, adding stuffing to it a little at a time.

Still wondering about the Washington Monument? Well, Billy "Pop" Schriver of a Chicago ball club caught a ball dropped from the 500-foot level of the memorial in 1892.

Berlin, Where's Berlin?

That Berlin has been a source of friction between the East and West ever since the end of World War II is common knowledge. At least, we presume it's common knowledge.

At any rate, the current "crisis" over Berlin is just one of the many which has been manufactured by the Soviets. And what makes the Berlin situation especially difficult to handle is that the city is 110 miles inside the Soviet Zone of Germany.

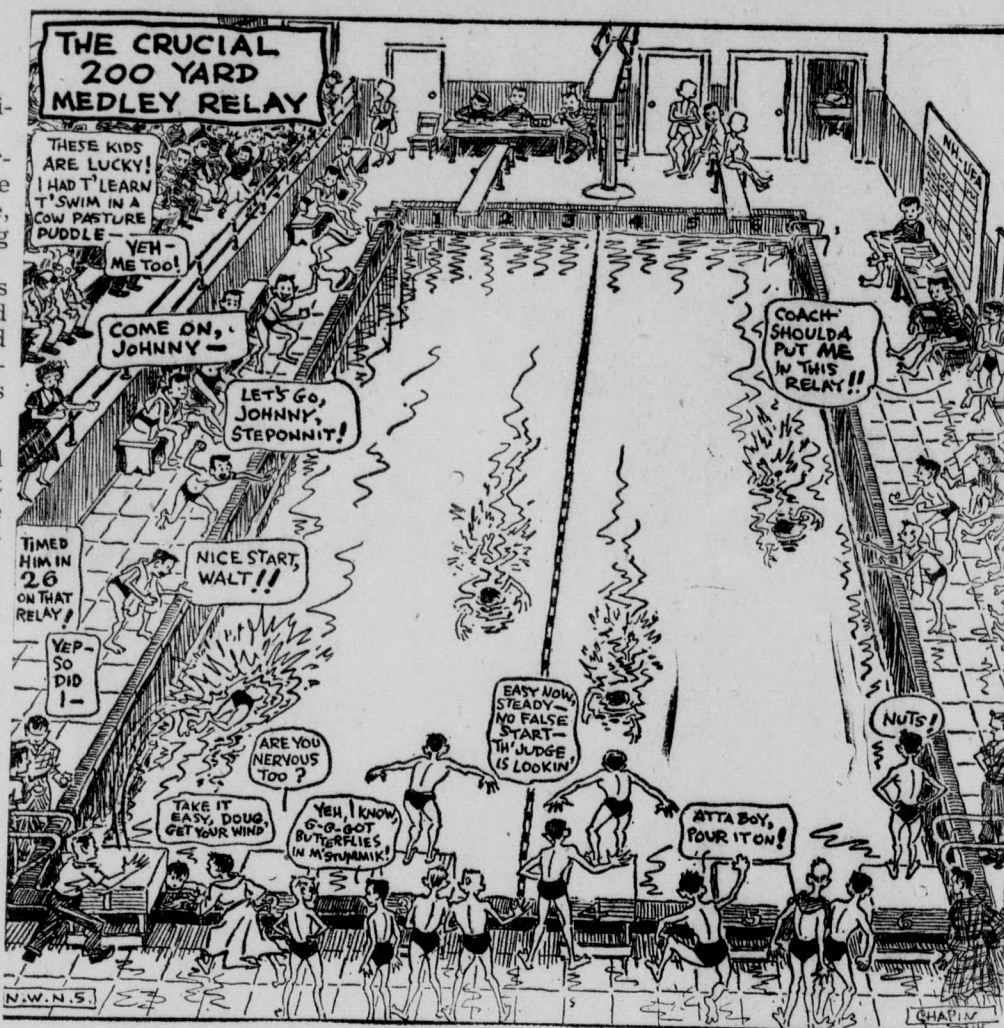

That fact has been repeatedly emphasized and dramatized as in the 1948-49 air lift which kept West Berlin alive despite the Soviet blockade of the roads leading from West Germany into Berlin.

When President Eisenhower spoke to the nation on March 16, he displayed a huge map showing Berlin's geographical position. His talk was heard by tens of millions of Americans. Yet, unbelievably, the New York Times discovered, in polling public sentiment on the President's address, that nearly 40 percent of the people they contacted didn't know that Berlin is deep within Communist-controlled territory.

It makes one wonder what it takes to acquaint people with the facts—or to get them to pay sufficient attention to news reports and discussions to get the facts.

The Times's discovery is hardly complimentary to a nation whose people are supposed to be among the best informed in the world.

Letters to the Editor

GOALS OF CHAMBER

(The following letter was received from the local Chamber of Commerce. It outlines the goals and principles of that organization.)

Dear Sir:

We pledge our support to those organizations engaged in projects for the betterment of this community.

We believe that we speak for the community as a whole when we give public utterance to our gratitude for the spirit of community service which prompts the members of the City Council, the Library Board, the School Board, the Sierra Madre Fire Department, and the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue team to function in their several capacities without hope of monetary compensation.

We are grateful for the spiritual leadership of our several churches. "Man cannot live by bread alone." In these days of global unrest and universal peril, our only really stable foundation is our faith in God and the brotherhood of man.

SIERRA MADRE is favored by having among its residents artists of great talent, writers of wide renown, and architects and scientists of distinction. We propose an annual display of these products so that the entire community may develop adequate appreciation.

By precept, example, and cooperation, we shall work to make this community more attractive to ourselves and to visitors. This includes more lighting on our streets at night and more beauty in our yards and parkways.

WE SHALL continue to advocate and promote special events for our business area that will bring visitors to our town and thus share with them some of our many advantages here.

We receive daily requests for pictorial and other information concerning Sierra Madre from people in other states seeking a new home. At the earliest possible moment, we shall prepare a new folder on these topics for general distribution.

We shall prepare and issue warm personal greetings to all new residents as they settle here and to new business enterprises which come to town.

And, we shall never refuse a helping hand to any citizen or any group needing help in an effort to make this a better place in which to live.

SIERRA MADRE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

'SOCIALISTIC OUTRAGE'

Dear Sir:

The nearly full page announcement by Southern Pacific Co., "We Want to Run Passenger Trains," in Sierra Madre News for March 26, is one more chapter in the socialistic outrage of the century. It reveals in transportation the same throttling of self-reliant private enterprise, which in agriculture created the tragic Stanley Yankus affair.

The PUC case for the empty passenger train rests on an alleged public utility obligation of railroads to perform public transportation at private expense. In business law an obligation becomes binding only by a consideration. Government consideration of railroads in the form of 19th Century land grants has worn very thin. They were paid 9 1/2 times by 1945 when the financial obligation of reduced rates for government traffic was erased.

While PUC piously recites the public right to ride on passenger trains, other government agencies are destroying the service by promoting subsidized competition. Government pays a large part of the fare on all types of non-rail transport.

Super highway empire builders are furiously expanding our paved arenas on land forever removed from the tax rolls. Our governor proposes to levy new taxes to buy more air traffic control at public expense. Railroads provide their own train control devices and pay tax on them as improvements.

They operate on their own right-of-way and terminals, which are the happy hunting grounds of the tax assessor. Planes fly through the tax free air between airports provided by government free from property taxes. Many enjoy a subsidy guaranteed income.

In two nutshells: The iron horse is whipped by PUC, neglected by the public, kicked by the governor, and deprived of oats by the tax collector. The motorized jackals (trucks) on the highway and the subsidized vultures in the air are worshipped by the public, petted by the governor, and fed by the tax assessor who steals oats from the iron horse's feed bin.

No, this is not the hammer and sickle land, it is the United States of America, the land of free private enterprise, equality of opportunity—and the former home of Stanley Yankus!

Very respectfully,

K. Fritz Schumacher.

FALLOUT DANGER

Dear Sir:

The March issue of "Consumer Reports" at the library has an excellent article with the results of the most comprehensive study thus far conducted on the effects of radioactive fallout on the milk we drink. It should be read, I feel, by every parent.

Most sincerely,

TERRY MACKENZIE

Every citizen concerned for public health, and ultimately, the future of mankind.

Strontium-90, the new radioactive isotope of Strontium, produced by every explosion of a nuclear bomb, presently constitutes one of the most serious hazards of fallout, because it enters our food supply, and milk is the primary route by which it enters our bodies. Like calcium, it seeks the bone, and it stays there a long time.

THE ATOMIC Energy Commission has tended to minimize the dangers of testing and fallout, and on at least three separate occasions, published completely false figures, only to admit to error later on. It seems fantastic that persons whose decisions effect so many millions of lives could falsify or manipulate information for personal gain or whatever the reason, but such would seem to be the case.

"Consumer Reports" concludes its article with the question, "What's to be done?" and offers no special recommendations already put forth that something definitely needs to be done, and soon.

There is, of course, nothing we can do about the radioactive material already polluting our air, nor the individual family tragedies of children with leukemia, still born babies, and other effects, immediate and long-term, of fallout already sustained.

BUT THERE is something citizens can, and I feel must do to make their concerns known to those who shape our policies. That is: Write, write and write letters.

Never underestimate the value of even one voice: it is world opinion which helped bring pressure to bear at the political and diplomatic level resulting in the present conference at Geneva in the first place, and there must be a new out-pouring to give our own Ambassador Wadsworth the negotiating flexibility he needs.

The end of nuclear testing would, of course, prevent future fallout in peacetime; but of vastly greater and more far-reaching importance, a viable treaty would be the first step in the long path toward preventing nuclear war, and eventually, the insanity of war itself.

Write, if you care, to Ambassador James J. Wadsworth at Geneva, to President Eisenhower, to the State Department, and to Henry Cabot Lodge at the U.N.

Most sincerely,

TERRY MACKENZIE

Every citizen concerned for public health, and ultimately, the future of mankind.

Strontium-90, the new radioactive isotope of Strontium, produced by every explosion of a nuclear bomb, presently constitutes one of the most serious hazards of fallout, because it enters our food supply, and milk is the primary route by which it enters our bodies. Like calcium, it seeks the bone, and it stays there a long time.

THE ATOMIC Energy Commission has tended to minimize the dangers of testing and fallout, and on at least three separate occasions, published completely false figures, only to admit to error later on. It seems fantastic that persons whose decisions effect so many millions of lives could falsify or manipulate information for personal gain or whatever the reason, but such would seem to be the case.

"Consumer Reports" concludes its article with the question, "What's to be done?" and offers no special recommendations already put forth that something definitely needs to be done, and soon.

There is, of course, nothing we can do about the radioactive material already polluting our air, nor the individual family tragedies of children with leukemia, still born babies, and other effects, immediate and long-term, of fallout already sustained.

BUT THERE is something citizens can, and I feel must do to make their concerns known to those who shape our policies. That is: Write, write and write letters.

Never underestimate the value of even one voice: it is world opinion which helped bring pressure to bear at the political and diplomatic level resulting in the present conference at Geneva in the first place, and there must be a new out-pouring to give our own Ambassador Wadsworth the negotiating flexibility he needs.

The end of nuclear testing would, of course, prevent future fallout in peacetime; but of vastly greater and more far-reaching importance, a viable treaty would be the first step in the long path toward preventing nuclear war, and eventually, the insanity of war itself.

Write, if you care, to Ambassador James J. Wadsworth at Geneva, to President Eisenhower, to the State Department, and to Henry Cabot Lodge at the U.N.

Most sincerely,

TERRY MACKENZIE

Church Women Accepted In Synod's WOC Group

The Women of the Church organization of Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church were formally accepted into the Pacific Southwest Synod's WOC group this week at the convention in Phoenix, Ariz.

Representing Shepherd of the Hills at the convention are Mrs. Robert E. Vogel, Arcadia, secretary; Mrs. Wade P. Bowman, San Gabriel, treasurer; Mrs. Walter D. Boone and Mrs. John C. Horn, both of Arcadia, chairmen of the circles, and Mrs. Ray E. Hansen, the pastor's wife.

The church is now participating in a clothing and shoes drive for Lutheran World Relief and for migrant workers. Contributions may be brought to the church the next two Sundays. The congregation also participated in the Friends

Neighborly Love Is Fortnighters Discussion Topic

The Fortnighters, adult discussion group at the Congregational Church, will discuss the obligations of neighborly love when they meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carlson, 277 Ramona, on this Friday evening.

The nature of Christian responsibility, the extent we should go in our concern for our neighbor, and the results we may expect from our neighborliness will be among the topics to be discussed. The meeting begins at 8 p.m.

FATHERS ARE invited to bring their teen-age sons, or to call the church office for "temporary sons," for the quarterly meeting of the Men's Fellowship at the Congregational Church this Monday evening.

The Rev. Daniel Towler, pastor of the Lincoln Methodist Church, Pasadena, and former Ram football star, will be the speaker. Officers for the coming year will be elected. The dinner begins at 6:30.

CORPORATE COMMUNION The Associates of the Sisters of St. Mary of the Church of the Ascension will meet in the Convent Chapel, Saturday, April 25, at 8 a.m. for Corporate Communion. Breakfast and the business meeting will follow in the Parish House.

Methodists Plan Annual Banquet

Invitations have been issued to more than 130 couples of the five fellowship groups of the Sierra Madre Methodist Church for the first annual Fellowship Banquet in Holliston Hall of Holliston Avenue Methodist Church in Pasadena, Friday, April 24.

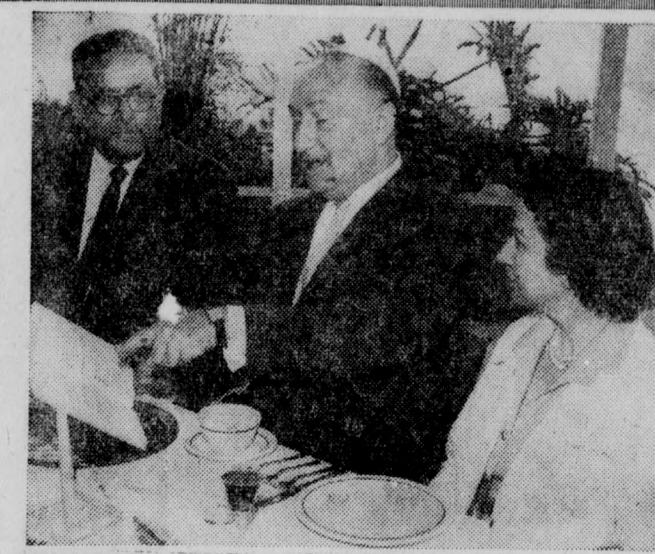

The affair is also open to all members and friends of the church, whether or not they are now active members of the fellowship groups.

Dinner is scheduled for 7 o'clock with a five-act surprise program to follow. Reservations may be made by calling the church office or one of the group presidents, not later than Sunday, April 19.

George Rogers is general chairman. Cullen Weems is in charge of the program and Mrs. Ben Watson is chairman of the decorating committee.

Groups participating are Sierra Partners, Lamplighters, Los Amigos, Circuit Riders and Wayfarers.

The road to success is paved with broken faith and lost hope.

Dear Neighbor and Fellow Citizen:

We invite your attention to these things—

Most items on your shopping list can be found in Sierra Madre stores, shops and offices.

The price tags on these goods and services are competitive prices based on what you will find elsewhere.

There is no cost to you for parking anywhere in Sierra Madre. Parking lots are free and there are no parking meters here!

From any free parking lot or any spot along the curb in the business area it is only a few steps to the store where you wish to shop.

When you shop in Sierra Madre you avoid the perils and discomforts of travel to and from more densely populated areas. This is a friendly, neighborly town and your children—if you find it necessary to take them with you when you shop—are safer and more comfortable here at home and among friends than most anywhere else.

It is easy to "know" those who wait on you when you shop in Sierra Madre. You find a friendly interest in getting you what you want and if it isn't "on the shelf" it will be ordered for you. Do the convenient thing. Shop in Sierra Madre first. It may save you time and money.

Come in and visit us. Whether you buy or not we'll be glad to see you.

VFW and Ladies Auxiliary Plan Joint Meeting Sunday

Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies Auxiliary have planned a joint meeting April 19, in the clubhouse, at 3 p.m. A potluck supper will be served at 5 o'clock.

Those wishing to attend the dinner are asked to bring a hot dish or salad. Those wishing information may call Dorothy Kennedy, ELgin 5-7359.

ALA MEETING

Members of American Legion Auxiliary will meet April 23 in the home of Mrs. Elise Hadlock, 385 W. Orange Grove. Winners of the Americanism essay contest will be announced by the chairman, Kitty Miller.

At the group's last meeting, members voted $10 to the cemetery clean-up fund.

Those attending the past presidents' dinner in Baldwin Park last Friday night, honoring all ex-service women of the 18th District, were Mrs. Arthur Embree, Mrs. Theo Proctor, Mrs. Thomas Henderson and guest of honor, ex-service woman, Mrs. Leila Roberts.

Fifty ex-service women, representing the Spanish, first and second World Wars and the Korean conflict, were among the 160 guests at the party. Mrs. Myrna Wynkoop of Pasadena, national past president parley chairman, and Jack Fifer of Duarte, were guest speakers. Mrs. Florence Eakman has requested cards from unit members. Her address is Monterey Rest Home, South San Gabriel, Calif.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Sierra Madre Woman's Club will have its annual federation tea April 22 at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Franklin A. Franco, president, will preside. Mrs. Howard J. Chandler, Verdugo District president, will speak on "Federation" and Mrs. F. Louis Arnold, federation extension secretary, will discuss "Fruits of Federation."

The local club will be represented today, at the third annual convention of Verdugo District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, held at Huntington-Sheraton Hotel.

Spring Ball At Turf Club

Plans have been completed for "Spring Flirtation Ball," sponsored by Holy Name Society and St. Rita's Guild, scheduled for Saturday night at Santa Anita Turf Club.

Mrs. Julie Cogorno and Anthony De Pasco, party chairmen, have announced guests will dance to the music of Joe Nicasio and his orchestra.

Emile E. Smiths Celebrate 30th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Emile E. Smith, 333 N. Sunnyside, celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary last Sunday at an afternoon party.

Among those in attendance were Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. M. L. Smith; two brothers, Ray and Leo Smith; a son, Raymond; and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hand. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Woolworth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Parker and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Paschall and family, Mrs. Toots Ellis and Mrs. Mayme Richards.

The couple was married April 13, 1929, in Sierra Madre.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Leland Marsh, 657 W. Grand View, was honored at a birthday dinner in the Newport Beach home of his stepson, Don Gelhke.

Teachers at Conference

Members of the Sierra Madre School faculty attended conferences last Saturday on "Education of the More Capable Learners" and "Education of the Neurologically Handicapped."

Mrs. Phyllis Quinlan, Mrs. Jean Hearst, Mrs. Lenore Batchelor and Mrs. Betty Biklin attended the county-wide conference on the former subject, held in Montebello.

Mrs. Lee Atkins heard discussions on the neurologically handicapped child by the nation's leaders in pediatrics, genetics, psychiatry and special education, at the annual Institute for the Neurologically Handicapped at Children's Hospital in Hollywood.

R. R. Hartmans Visit Lancaster

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph R. Hartman, 460 N. Lima, made a visit to her sisters, Mrs. Arthur T. Evans, home in Lancaster. Her brother, Warren Preston, 440 E. Montecito, made the trip with them.

It's the time of year when the lilacs are in bloom and the party attended the annual lilac show in Palmdale. They also brought a load of lilacs back with them.

C. H. Dodson Visits Embrees

Calaway H. Dodson, newly appointed director of the school of botany at University of Guayaquil in Ecuador, is a house guest at the Alvin Embree home, 214 W. Carter.

'Sleeping Beauty' To Be Presented In Arcadia

"The Sleeping Beauty of Loreland" will be presented Saturday at 2:30 in Arcadia High School Little Theatre by the production group of Children's Theatre.

Saturday's performance will be the first presentation since reorganization of the cooperative group, directed by parents of members and sponsored by the Arboretum Historical Society.

Members range in age from six to sixteen and the roster is composed of children from Sierra Madre, Pasadena, Temple City, Arcadia, Monrovia and San Gabriel.

Mrs. Frank Bristow, general director, is assisted by Mrs. John Hefti, Howard Clark, Mrs. Roger Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Horton and Mrs. Herbert Meier, who is serving as secretary, treasurer and information guide.

Under the new setup of reorganization, groups have been divided into separate work shops, each with its own director, assistants and leaders.

The workshops include art, puppetry, production, creative drama and creative writing.

Reservations for Saturday's performance may be made by calling Mrs. Wayne Glausser, ELgin 5-8122, or Mrs. Frank Newman, Hillcrest 7-5004.

Stork Shower Honors Mrs. Ried

Mrs. Shirley E. Douglass, 621 Fairview, was hostess at a stork shower for Mrs. Nancy Ried, 86 N. Lima, given by the "gals" at Arnold's Hardware.

Those in attendance were Mrs. Gertrude Simson, Mrs. Gertrude Behrens, Mrs. Florence Hutter, Mrs. Margaret MacAuley, Mrs. Betty Welch, Mrs. Rae Kitch and Mrs. Esther Dooley.

Local Cancer Crusade Set Monday Eve

Sierra Madreans are asked "to open their doors and their hearts" Monday night (April 20) when their Memorial Crusader calls to ask them to join in the battle against cancer.

Cancer has struck in a number of Sierra Madre homes this year and many of the Crusaders are taking part in the life-saving mission as a personal tribute to someone here who has been lost to cancer, according to Mrs. Hugh P. Colvin, chairman of the American Cancer Society's Memorial Crusade in Sierra Madre.

"We know that two out of every three families will be struck by cancer one day and that over 2,000 of our friends and neighbors will be lost unless we join together in a concerted effort to help them now," she said.

Mrs. Colvin urged every family in Sierra Madre to learn the facts about cancer which they will receive, and to contribute generously to cancer research.

Section chairmen who will lead some 200 Crusaders in the door-to-door effort include Mmes. Kenneth Bush, Mac A. Cason, Robert G. Forney, Gardner Frye, Robert A. Nash and William Preston.

Chamber To Honor Local Groups

A series of receptions and other social functions honoring members of the Sierra Madre artists' colony and a manufacturers' exhibit featuring the products made locally are on the Chamber of Commerce program for the coming year.

In a statement announcing these events, the Chamber pays tribute to the City Council, the Fire Department, the Search and Rescue Squad and other local groups which do so many things for the city without thought of compensation.

The Civic Club, for example, was given a citation by the Chamber at its annual meeting Monday evening with special reference to the beautification of Sierra Madre Blvd.

Appreciation was voiced for the spiritual leadership of the local churches of various denominations.

"Man cannot live by bread alone," says the Chamber statement. "In these days of global unrest and almost universal concern about the future, our basic foundation rests on faith in God and a belief in the brotherhood of man."

The Chamber also strongly endorses better lighting facilities throughout the community and pledges its support to all organizations working for the betterment of Sierra Madre.

Sheila Sanders Will Marry Mr. Robertson

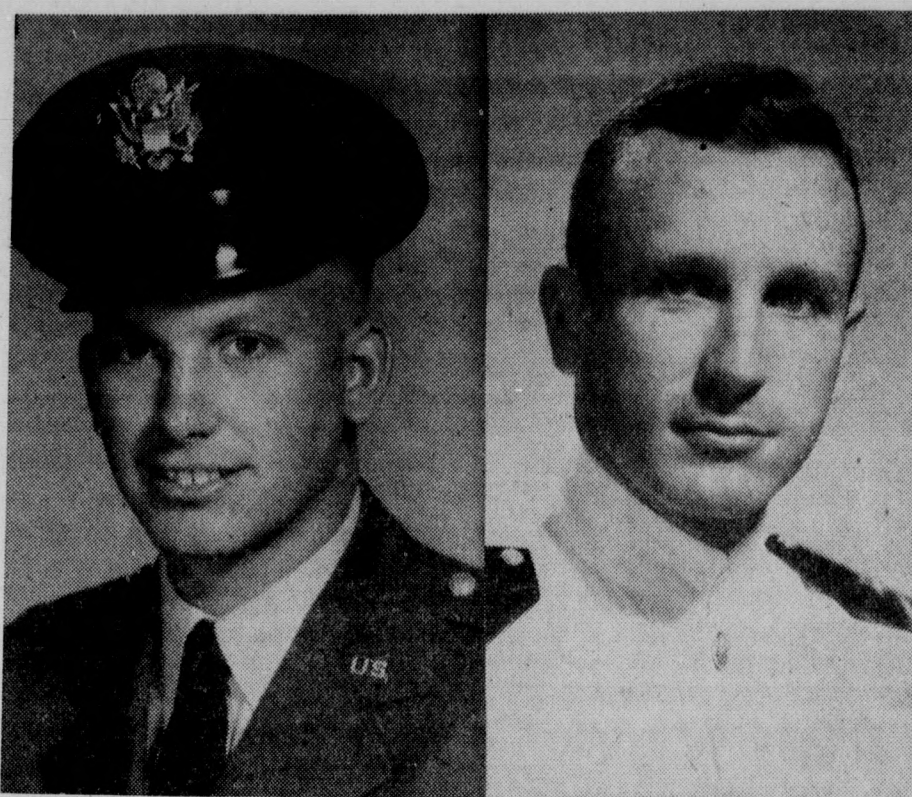

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Omar Sanders, 1801 El Vista Circle, Arcadia, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Sheila, to Theodore Ross Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman P. Robertson of 1627 Amberwood Dr., South Pasadena, formerly of 546 Sturtevant Dr., Sierra Madre.

Plans are being made for a late August wedding at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Arcadia.

The bride-to-be revealed her betrothal Monday night at the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house at the University of Southern California by reading a poem written by her father and passing the traditional candle.

A junior at USC working for her teacher's credentials, Sheila graduated from Arcadia High School in 1956, where in 1955 she was the school's first Homecoming Queen.

Common Snail Makes Delectable Meal

Among the many men and women of distinction who have business with the Sierra Madre News is one Leon Barreau, raconteur, teacher of languages, expert trout fisherman and the former proprietor of a French restaurant in Chicago.

M. Barreau's main project currently is to teach French, but he also still practices his culinary art, and at the drop of a bay leaf will launch into a discourse on the preparation of food in the French style.

Like all good Frenchmen, M. Barreau is a connoisseur of snail cookery. That slug, who inhabits the gardens and lawns of Southern Californians in great profusion should be treated with respect, certainly not with Snaor. Properly prepared, he is a delightful morsel, assures M. Barreau.

HERE IS M. Barreau's recipe, with only the gestures and French accent missing.

Collect all the snails you can find. Big ones, little ones and those of medium size. Ask the neighborhood youngsters to collect them for you, too. (Big ones are best).

Put them all in boxes and feed them plenty of corn meal, bran or similar food for about a month. In 30 days, the snails will grow fat and they will also disgorge much of the matter they have picked up during their travels over your flower bed and lawn.

When the snails are sufficiently plump, wash them three times in cold water, a process which eliminates more unpleasant material. Next, place the number you wish to eat—maybe 50—in a pan of boiling water.

WHEN THE water returns to a boil, cook the snails for about 4 minutes. Under no circumstances, cook them for more than 5 minutes.

Now take the snails from their shells, carefully, with a tooth pick or other suitable instrument. Snip off the ends of their tails. This step is most important, since the tails are bitter tasting.

Next, return them to their shells. You can sometimes put two or three cooked snails into one shell.

You are almost ready for the final step, but first you must prepare a sauce. Mix together one-third finely chopped parsley, one-third chopped shallots (the aristocrat of the onion family) or the white part of green onions, finely chopped, will do, and one-third sweet butter. Mix ingredients together until a paste has been formed.

PLACE THE snails in the broiler, but first cover the bottom of the broiler pan with salt. This prevents the snails from rolling around.

Now place a dab of the sauce on each shell and broil at 375 to 400 degrees for about 5 minutes. After that time the snails will have absorbed the sauce.

Remove from the broiler and serve, immediately, with a green salad and white wine. Delicious, says M. Barreau.

A MOST accommodating gentleman, M. Barreau, for a price, will prepare and serve dinners in private homes. There must be at least 12 guests, though.

He has three prices—$2.22 per person, $3.33 or $5.55. The $5.55 dinner takes about two hours to consume and includes a cocktail before the meal and a pousse cafe or Benedictine afterwards.

Among the first courses would be lobster or crab Rockefeller and the piece de resistance may be squab. No snails, unless ordered.

In case you're interested (here comes the free plug) you can call M. Barreau at SYcamore 2-0357.

A meal prepared by him and his assistants would be a memorable one, you can be sure.

INVESTORS SAVINGS

Investors Savings and Loan Association, with offices in Pasadena and Glendale, reported interest payments yesterday of $351,626 to savers for the three-month period ending March 31, 1959. This is an increase of more than $46,000 from the like period for 1958. Nearly one thousand new savings accounts were opened this first quarter, bringing the total number of savers to

Fungus Infection Cause of 'Black Tongue'

(Presented as a public service by the Foothill District of the Los Angeles County Medical Assn.)

QUESTION — What is the cause of a very dark discoloration and roughness of the tongue?—P.W.

ANSWER—This is difficult to answer with the little information you have provided; but the condition could very well fall into the class of what is called "black hairy tongue."

This condition presents a dark, fur-like discoloration on top of the back portion of the tongue. This furry coating has long fibers at times. The exact cause is not known, but it has been considered to be due to unhygienic surroundings and also to some type of fungus or bacterial infection. Vitamin deficiencies also have been blamed for it. Other causes for discoloration are excessive smoking or some type of pigmented tumor.

Q.—What should be done for swelling of the arm following a breast amputation?—T.J.

lowing a breast amputation?—T.J.

A.—Treatment of swelling of the arm following breast amputation consists largely of simple measures. The arm should be wrapped from hand to shoulder with an elastic bandage continuously for a week or two. Mild physical massage or other modes of physical therapy may help.

It is important, however, to have a thorough examination, preferably by the operating surgeon, rather than self-treatment alone. The causes of the swelling are many and only your doctor is qualified to select proper treatment.

Q.—What is the usual treatment for cystic mastitis?—E.P.

A.—Cystic mastitis (inflammation of the breast) is a completely harmless condition and usually requires no treatment. It is extremely common among women in the childbearing age and is due to normal activity of breast tissue. On many occasions, however, areas of cystic mastitis may present a localized "lump" and thus be indistinguishable from tumor. If this occurs, a piece of tissue from the suspicious area should be removed and examined microscopically for diagnosis.

Q.—What causes my eyes to burn, even on smogless days and with properly fitted glasses?—D.V.

A.—There are a good many causes for burning of the eyes besides the local smog condition and ill-fitting glasses. One of the most common of these is a sensitivity to some foreign substance such as pollen or cosmetics, or even such common household items as detergents.

Disturbances of the nerve supply to the eye as a result of irritation or infection may also cause smarting and burning.

Determination of the cause can be made by laboratory study and careful examination and history.

Take your problems to Church this week —

Millions Leave Them There!

The Happiest Days

It seems incredible when so many have lived in beautiful girl and boy land that the philosophy of insanity that prevails in many minds throughout the world today could really be taken seriously. It denies the existence of a personal God and goes all-out for cynicism. It preaches the self-sufficiency of man while reducing his lot to worse than slavery.

One brilliant man who had temporarily "fallen" for this insane philosophy tells how he turned from it back to sanity when he began observing the delicate formation of his little daughter's ear. He realized that moment that he was not self-sufficient. He found that his church was a veritable refuge in the trying days that followed when he publicly repudiated Communism.

The church needs your help and the help of all in fighting this insidious doctrine that would enslave the world. You can do your part through regular attendance and active participation and by urging your friends to attend church with you.

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in this space.

A 14 LB. 8 OZ. Blue Fin tuna, believed to be the first rod and reel tuna in United States waters in 1959, was taken April 4 by Joe Mascarenas of Torrence while sportfishing aboard the boat "Hornet" at San Clemente Island. Five others were hooked up, but due to the surprise of their appearance so early in the year, the shocked anglers were not prepared for them. Fishing experts exclaimed that this is the earliest that tuna have arrived in these waters and immediately forecast an unprecedented fishing year because of the early appearance of warm water tidal currents. During the week of March 30th, 2 Marlin were seen from the Catalina excursion vessel "Magic Isle" and a Broadbill Swordfish was reported seen by the Department of Fish and Game, off the west end of Catalina Island.

Garden Notes . . .

Colorful Dahlia Among Easiest Plants to Grow

Dahlias grow beautifully in California and can add much to the summer garden. Coming as they do when much of the garden is in a late summer slump (to say nothing of the gardener), their color is all the more welcome.

And what color! Bright splashes of it in the gayest shades of red, orange, yellow, white, bronze and a purple that's so deep it's almost black.

Like Chrysanthemums, Dahlias come in enough sizes and shapes to please everyone. You find them in small pompons on up through a myriad of single and double forms to gigantic double mops the size of a dinner plate.

For all their worth, however, Dahlias are among the easiest ornamentals to grow. You can merely plant a tuber and give it an occasional watering to get far more than such idle methods deserve. But with a modicum of attention, the same Dahlia will reward you with added vigor and increased blooms.

At planting time, tubers should go 4 to 6 inches deep, depending on whether soil is heavy or loose (the looser, the deeper). Large flowered varieties especially will need a stake which can and should be placed at planting time. The end of the tuber should be planted toward and within an inch or two of the stake.

Water and sun are important to the Dahlia. Supply the former about twice a week during its period of growth. A mulch with steer manure when plants are well up should be all the fertilizer needed.

TO ENCOURAGE branching and added color, pinch out the top of each plant when it has three or four sets of leaves.

When picking the blooms, avoid the heat of day. Morning is the preferred picking time. Strip the lower leaves and plunge the stems into scalding water. Far from finishing the bloom off, such treatment will prolong its life and let you enjoy in the house what you've already enjoyed outside.

The man who is afraid to admit his mistakes is making another.

Angling License Sales On Increase

By Al Miyadi

FISHY BUSINESS—Two weeks ago, game wardens cited a dozen anglers at a Santa Monica Bay landing. Last week, at the very same landing, over $300 worth of fishing licenses were sold in one day.

WINNAHS!—Weekly gripe contest winners: H. Boyd Crammer, 195 W. Los Tunas Dr., San Gabriel, and J. A. Martin, Box 98, Greenville, Calif.

Winners now allowed the option of a single fishing pass, good for any day, or a pair good for week days only. In any case, the contest continues. Mail your gripes to me: 3506 Muscatel Circle, Rosemead.

CROWDS—Somebody has made a guess that Lake Irvine on Sundays grosses around $10,000.

A couple of Santa Monica Bay landings turned away fishermen two days in a row last week.

SUCCESS STORY—Hottest barracuda jig in town belongs to Jerry Esten, kid manufacturer who jumped into the racket only a year ago . . . called the Jerry-Jig. And speaking of jigs, Clyde Goto, of Clyde's Clobber fame, reportedly made a bundle. And speaking of Goto, hear it said that Clyde is interested, very, in Legg Lake.

ON THE BEACH—Barracuda action still sizzling along, the action centered around Zuma Beach.

The scooter take figures to fly past last year's record count of 770,000. (What I wanna know is, who's counting these fish?)

Malibu boats fishing next to Paradise Cove barge scored well on log-size barracuda last weekend.

Rock Point cold now, figures to turn hot. San Diego has to improve . . . crowds down from last year.

Norm's San Pedro landing, jacking along these past few weeks, now has real competition . . . Joe Martin's 22nd St. Landing swung into action with all-radar fleet last week.

That bluefin tuna catch (52 tons by commercials) is real good news. Fish were taken between San Clemente and Catalina Islands . . . It's the crabs, men . . . red tuna crabs, that is.

San Felipe's totuava fishing now in full swing, so are the crowds. Check weather conditions here before leaving . . . winds.

The good die young—is especially true of good resolutions.

If the weather alone hasn't been enough to give you the itch to get out and explore the great unknown, the fact that just everyone, but EVERYONE, has either been on a trip or about to go, ought to clinch it. I sit here forlornly and count the green stamps and I don't even have enough to get one piece of luggage.

Well, there is always the challenge of the garden when all else fails. By the time I get through battling all of the interesting flora and fauna I'll be too fatigued to contemplate all the flotsam and jetsam (Hollow words...)

What could be worse for a person with an urge to travel than to go to someone else's embarkation?

THE JOHN Chapmans of Old House Road embarked on the Matsonia line yesterday amid cheers from various and sundry friends. After a stateroom party that developed the proper spirit for the travelers those same friends disembarked and waved a fond farewell from the pier. The Chapmans were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Chapman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Stevens, who came out that morning to join them on their journey. They will stay at the Hawaiian Village in Honolulu.

The well-wishers were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Mueller, Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goldsworthy, Mr. and Mrs. Alkman Armstrong, Dr. and Mrs. Lincoln Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Matloff, Dr. and Mrs. William P. Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bachtel, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maurin and the Chapman's son, Steve.

THE CHARLES Goldsworthys of Fairpoint returned last week from an 8-day trip to Mexico. They flew down to La Paz and stayed four days seeing the sights and then they flew over to Mazatlan where they met Dr. and Mrs. Robert Mueller. The Muellers had been to a medical convention in Phoenix and then flew down. The two couples spent their time there body surfing in the ocean, swimming and fishing. The women each caught a shark, but the man eluded the bait. (Yikes, do you use bait? I don't know.)

THE JOSEPH Philipsons of Old House Road spent their last weekend with their four children in 29 Palms basking in the desert sun.

ALSO RETURNING from a brief vacation are Mr. and Mrs. Alkman Armstrong of Fairpoint Ave. They spent five days in Palm Springs during the big Circus Week-end. They were joined there by Mr. Armstrong's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Styron.

BEFORE I forget it, a message to out-of-town friends: Mae and Bill: I still say, don't give up your B.R. for visitors!

COLONEL AND Mrs. Stanley Jones, USAF, retired, are back in their 1155 Sierra Madre Villa home after an absence of five years. They have been all over the world with the USAF, their last post being in San Antonio, Texas, where the colonel was retired. They have two grown children. Their son, Milton, is a major in the USAF Jets in Germany. He is over there with his wife and four children. Their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Holm, have two children and they live in Burbank. Welcome home!

THE JOHN W. Fergusons, who incidentally rented the Jones home in their absence, have stayed in our neighborhood. They are now located at 3251 Fairpoint Ave. They have one grown son who is married and has one daughter, Lisa. It doesn't take much thinking at all to know that Lisa is the pride of the Fergusons' life. Mr. Ferguson is the manager of the Boots Aircraft Corp., Western Division.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

UP ON ...

Hastings Hill

Spring is really here. Signs are everywhere. All the population has spring fever, half has hay fever and one-seventh has poison oak. If we had to, we could live very healthily off dandelions, wild mustard and snails, since we have such an abundance. Organizations are "electing" after browbeating the candidates into taking the jobs.

Bare feet on all ages, shapes and sizes of "ranchers" are back in the grocery stores. Backyard pools are splashing.

And speaking of backyard swimming, Nita and Anthony Alfredo have a graceful new pool, and they, plus daughters Cathy and Lynn can hardly wait until it is filled, which should be any day now.

Canfield Road neighbors are planning a get reacquainted progressive party next month. Ruth and Jim Alexander spent a few days in San Jose and Palo Alto, just after he returned from a business trip deep in the heart of Texas. The Roland H. Grahams had a few days in Palm Springs.

Wanahda and Louis Dickson and daughters, DD and Marva, have returned from a holiday in Arizona. They spent one night with Ethel and Russ Krauss, former Ranch residents now living in Scottsdale, and their two daughters, Linda and Stephanie. In Phoenix, they visited with the John Jansons (the fellows were war-time friends). DD was guest of honor at a "Record Hop" given for her by the Jansons' son.

Harold Berg was among past presidents of Pasadena Y's Men's Club who enjoyed their annual stag party last weekend at Rancho Santa Lucia.

Participate in Scout Show

Frank A. Parks of Chapman Woods, Pasadena, member of the Board of Directors of the San Gabriel Valley Council, has been named general chairman of the 1959 Rose Bowl Scout Show. It was announced by Council President William H. Morse.

Parks has been holding meetings of the show committee, and it is anticipated that more than 15,000 Scouts and Explorers will participate in addition to the council's 570 Cub packs.

The theme of the 1959 show is, "Adventure-That's Scouting." Over 300 live action booths will be exhibited showing Scouting in all its aspects on the floor of the Rose Bowl. Added to the booth exposition, will be many special events under the direction of Sterling Tracy of the Columbia Broadcasting System, such as authentic Indian dances, a gigantic Explorer Scout auto show, many Scouting skills contests and a display and demonstration on Scout camping.

Don Benito PTA
To Hold Ice Cream Social

Don Benito PTA has invited everyone to attend its annual Ice Cream Social on Tuesday, April 28, from 6:30 until 9 p.m. in the school's cafeteria. The event is being held in conjunction with "Public School Week." Classrooms will be open from 7 until 8:30 p.m. Homemade cake and ice cream will be on sale for 10c each.

Toastmasters
Install New Officers

Dick Titera, division governor of Toastmasters Club, was in attendance at the Sierra Madre group's ladies night, to install officers for the coming year.

Officers installed were Vic Harris, president; John Logsdon, education vice president; Fred Hardesty, administrative vice president; Bill Bower, secretary; Joe Karam, treasurer; and Neil Grady, sergeant at arms.

Mr. Brady received the table topics award and Frank Page and Mr. Bower received the dual best speaker award. Others speaking were Mr. Karam and Jim Wentz, who gave his first talk, "Stork to Stardom," before the club.

The club's next meeting is scheduled for April 22. Those interested in attending should call the president, Mr. Harris, at ELgin 5-3622.

Anniversary
Celebrated
By A. Husses

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Huss of Pasadena were honored last Sunday at an open house, celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary, in the home of their son and wife, the Robert Husses, 3530 Landfair. Co-hosts were Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Berg, 1080 Leonard, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Huff.

The tea table was centered by a silvered cornucopia, overflowing with silver dollars. White flowers and fern completed the decorations.

Members of the Huss' bridal party, Mrs. Donald Helgeson of Pasadena, William Huss of Glendale and Arnold Fedde of Sierra Madre, were among the 125 guests in attendance at the party.

The couple were married April 12, 1934, by her father, Rev. Joseph H. Berg, in the Grace Lutheran Church located at Mountain and Summit.

Mrs. Huss' sister, Mrs. Ansel Severson of San Diego, also a member of the bridal party, was unable to attend the party.

$400,000
Ontra Opens
In 60 Days

Ontra Cafeteria's newest branch, under construction in the Hastings Ranch Shopping Center at Rosemead and Foothill, is rapidly approaching completion, reported J. M. Baughman, manager of the new unit.

Cost of the 13,285 square foot structure will be an estimated $400,000.

The restaurant will feature three public service areas: a cafeteria seating 200 persons, a restaurant seating 84 and a cocktail lounge accommodating 54 persons.

ARCHITECTS STILES and Robert Clements, master planners of the entire two-level center, said that construction is of concrete framing and reinforced brick, with facades of stone and plaster. Decorative elements include panels of concrete block and glass.

The dining facility will be situated on the second level of the center. Access will be by two entrances, one to a common lobby serving all three public areas and one entrance serving just the restaurant and bar.

The Clements firm stressed the functional planning, which makes use of a central kitchen serving both restaurants and equipped with the most modern mechanical conveniences including a automatic entry doors. The kitchen will occupy almost half the total floor space of the building.

INTERIORS WILL be designed along a contemporary motif with touches of traditional treatment, using wood paneling, decorative lighting fixtures, and screens of metal, wood and plastic.

The building will be completely air conditioned. Glass facades of the cafeteria will provide a view of the entire San Gabriel Valley.

There will be ample parking adjacent.

Murphy Brothers of Pasadena are the owners-developers of the project. Completion is anticipated within 60 days.

Delta Zetas
Set State Day
April 17

"Aim, act and achieve" will be the theme of the State Day convention workshop of Delta Zeta Sorority and parents meet April 17, 18 and 19 at the Lafayette Hotel in San Diego.

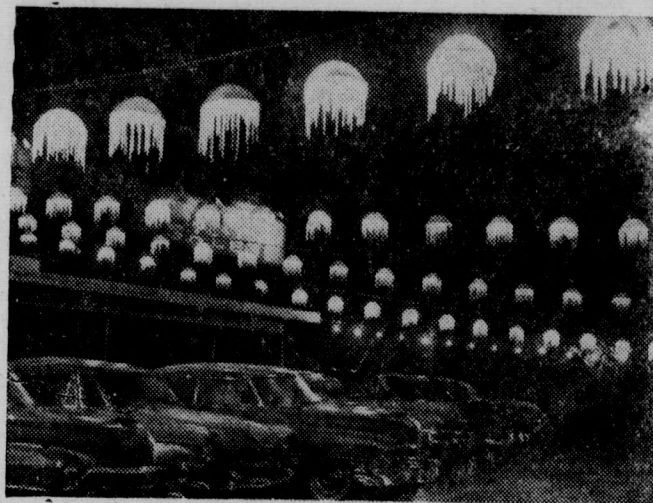

National officers who will be featured speakers are Mrs. Fred Kelloway, alumnae director; Mrs. Garold A. Leach, college director; Mrs. Charles H. Tourtelot, magazine chairman; Mrs. Helen Silvius, alumnae regional director, and Mrs. S. M. Gregory, college province director.

The banquet scheduled for Saturday night will honor alumnae chapters of the local province. An award to the year's outstanding alumna in the province will be presented by Mrs. Hugh Jones, San Marino, last year's winner.

In addition to Mrs. Jones, others attending from the Pasadena Foothill chapter include Mrs. Jay P. Phillips, president; Mrs. Raymond C. Pyley, Mrs. Price Harrelson, Mrs. Sachrison Pepper and Miss Barbara Griffith.

Ranchettes
A third son, Andrew Alan, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Myron L. Slobodien, 1170 Medford, March 29 at Huntington Memorial Hospital, weighing 8 pounds, 5 ounces. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. John Slobodien of Westwood. The other Slobodien boys are John, 9, and Bobby, 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel E. Burkett Jr., 1375 Rexford, are the parents of a son, Richard Race, born April 2 at Huntington Memorial Hospital, weighing 7 pounds, 4 ounces. The maternal grandmother is Mrs. Eloise Hansen of Solvang, Calif. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Lora Burkett of South Pasadena. The other Burkett children are Rusty, 7; Lora, 5, and Terry, 2.

Reflections of Old Rancher
In the Smoggy Dew

By John B. DuBois

Upon the decomposed granite slopes of my beloved Hastings Ranch, I gazed down at the valley below. How green was my valley, thought I, musedly watching the delicate fingers of smog creep over the valley on little dirty cat feet.

It sat looking over harbor and then rolled up the slope into my eyes. I reflected upon the gracious charm of this Ranch—with tears in my eyes.

The San Gabriel Mountains majestically rose behind me, fashionably polluted with Ivy League charcoal grey. Parched they were, and well burned, with each gorgeous ridge scalped with fire breaks.

IN THIS reflective mood I waded through the legions of children who sprouted everywhere like the poppies once did when they were legal. Thought I would take a stroll into the canyon. But was stopped by a United States of America, Department of the Interior, Forestry Service official sign that said, officially, "Fire Hazard—No Admittance."

So I sat, on my haunches, with the smog. It was delightful, this serene interlude with nature, as the motorcycles roared through the dying olive trees of Old Hastings Ranch.

But onward I strolled. Merely kicking the empty beer cans!

WHAT'S THIS? An old grape vine stump. Where once stood colorful rows of plump luscious grape vines, now stand colorless rows of 3-bedroom, 1 1/2-bath houses—plump with kids. I wondered which there were more of: grapes or kids.

Whereupon a thought struck me. The fertility of this land—where now the Ina Ray Hutton Show and houses stand like a colony of incubators—once yielded prolific crops of grapes. And as wise men know, grape vines have a wild way of yielding more in each subsequent year. Grapes beget grapes.

Now isn't it possible, musely I, that the seeds of these

Field Pupils Sparkle in Annual PTA Youth Show

One of the most popular annual programs of Eugene Field PTA—the character education program when children from various youth groups perform—again scored a huge success Friday night.

Narrated by Chet Osborn, an eighth grade member of the Boy Scout troop sponsored by Field, the program included Indian Y Guides, Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls, Cub Scouts, Brownies and Girl Scouts, and members of the Order of the Arrow, honorary Boy Scout group for boys between the ages of 14 and 18.

Chet introduced each of the groups in a novel way as he pulled from a suitcase paraphernalia of the groups and was "reminded" of their activities.

Indian Y Guides were first, led by Santo Jandegian in an impressive Indian head dress. Seven first grade Guides and their fathers, who participate in the program with them, recited their Indian names.

Second grade Blue Birds, led by Mrs. S. C. Deal, dressed in their regular service costumes but wearing pink flower hats, pantomimed a record.

Sixth grade Camp Fire Girls, led by Mrs. Joe Phillips, sang a group of camp songs.

Next came representatives of Cub Scout Pack 377, led by Mrs. Jack Atkinson, outlining requirements for Wolf, Bear, Lion and Weblows awards. Several boys from Pack 379, dressed in varied costumes, and directed by Mrs. Jan Britell, sang "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

Brownies, led by Mrs. Keith Lauritzen, and Girl Scouts, led by Mrs. E. F. Morton, marched and sang "Knock, Knock, Paddy Wack."

The finale of the program was an Indian dance, done in authentic costume and using black light, performed by the boys of the Order of the Arrow.

Nursery School Starts Summer Session July 6
Hastings Ranch Nursery School, which had its first summer school last year, will again offer a six-week session July 6 through August 14, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The school is a cooperative through the regular school year, with mothers participating as assistant teachers.

During the summer session, however, there will be no mother participation. Mrs. Lee Carmichael, school director, and Mrs. Albert Meyer, teacher, will take charge of the two age groups of pre-schoolers, each with an assistant.

Applications are being accepted at the school.

Sally McComas to Wed
Paul Eckel in June

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Frank McComas, 1536 Sierra Madre Villa, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sally Meta, to Paul R. Eckel of Medford, Ore.

The happy news was revealed to the bride-elect's sis-

Provo, Utah, in the traditional betrothal ceremony.

A write flower was sent anonymously to the president of the unit. She in turn brought the flower and a candle to the group's regular meeting. Members formed a circle in a darkened room and the lighted candle was passed until the girl announcing her engagement received it and blew it out.

The members then went to the benedict-elect's Tau Sig Social Unit and serenaded the members with the engagement song. Later in the evening, the boys returned to the girls' unit and serenaded them.

Miss McComas is in her sophomore year at the Utah university. She is a graduate of Marshall Junior High School and Pasadena High School. She was a Wistaria princess in 1957.

Mr. Eckel will graduate this June from Brigham Young where he is a marketing major, commander in AF ROTC and football captain.

Following the couple's marriage in the Mormon Temple, West Los Angeles, June 26, he will report to the U. S. Air Force for a five-year enlistment.

Mrs. Gibbons' Boys . . .

Roots of Delinquency Exposed at Town Hall

By Edward Voorhees

In "Mrs. Gibbons' Boys," directed by Helen Gross, on stage at Town Hall Theatre in Pasadena, authors Glickman and Stein present a dramatized text-book on what can make a juvenile delinquent, and how to do it yourself—for your own sons.

Mrs. Peggy Gibbons is a rather typical, though extreme, American "Mom" of the "momism" cult. An "underprivileged" widow, living in a walk-up apartment on New York's way—upper east side, she has given her three boys the soft life from their bib-age to their babe-age.

Consequently, they act on the assumption that the world owes them a living—with a "babe" thrown in—all without work. Mother has taken their part against the outraged neighbors, their teachers, and the police—who are all, she says, prejudiced against her darlings, those who are actually shameless liars and thieves.

THE PLAY opens with the two older boys in jail again, while Rudy of seventeen or so is at home on probation from reform school and is now accused by the grocer on the street floor of making off with a handy crate of canned pineapples.

Rudy denies grocer Rausch's face-to-face charge and his mother "believes" him. But not her realistic sister, Myra Hood, attractive, intelligent, and witty, who operates a nearby beauty shop and lives in this nest of juvenile guile and motherly gullibility.

It is Myra who makes the situation unmistakably clear to the audience. She is no "squealer," but a sarcastic and shrewd commentator. She is also sympathetic to her sister's wish to be married to the timid bachelor of 40, Mr. MacMichael, respected and honorable assistant manager of the Gas Company, who is courting the widow. Sister Myra, meanwhile, is having some unpleasant encounters with a blackmailing dandy ward politician, Woodrow E. Grupp, who is well along in a scheme to shake down Mrs. Gibbons for $500 in her sons' tangle with the law.

break jail and arrive suddenly at home, with "Horse" Wagner, a third escapee even tougher than themselves, and proceed to hold captive their mother's suitor all night, while one of them steals his office key and robs his cash box there, Mother Gibbons begins to see that her "babies" are perhaps a little lower than the angles.

Although her attitude has been largely hypocritical in refusing to see them for what they are—entirely without principles, morals, or ethics—when Mr. MacMichael is victimized and denounces them and her, she can no longer keep both eyes closed to what goes on. The large amount of audience laughter is partly due to the listeners' utter amazement at the ideas and verbal expressions of "me-first-and-last" egotism by the three grown-up brats.

The whole play is a gigantic flow of good-natured irony and satire on the contradictions between such a family of "heels" and a country of such high "ideals" and "opportunities" as the U.S.A.

HARRIET UECKER plays consistently the weak mother trying to fool herself, and Carole Wallace is equally capable as the honest and witty Myra, observer of the effects. Peter King is as painfully real in the cold heartlessness of young Rudy as is Sam Covington in portraying Mr. MacMichael as the naive victim of his own trustfulness.

Jerry Compton, a fine actor, is miscast and unconvincing as the low-down blackmailing of widows and would-be raper of unescorted women. Dick Kelley and David Francis play the two older brothers, Rodia and Francis X. Gibbons, as the "careless dresser" and "the one in conventional black" with outstanding individuality in character.

Carlos Guerrero does a sympathetic and patient friend of the family in the person of Coles, the detective-probation officer. Dino Fantini overstrains nature a bit in creating his idea of the trigger-happy "Horse" Wagner, who would eat his victims raw and without salt; but his mental energy is something to cherish and channel into imaginative creation. The Town Hall group shows fine teamwork and the presence of a productive vitality.

Brown's Program Wins Support

It was a week of victory in the State Legislature for key items in the program of Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

From fair employment practices and minimum wages to water and taxes, the governor's program was given resounding votes of confidence by the State Senate and Assembly.

Topping the list was approval by the Senate by an overwhelming vote of 30 to 5 of Gov. Brown's bill to establish a Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Earlier, the governor won a victory over opponents of the bill who tried to insert amendments. The amendments were killed when Brown said he would oppose them "with all the power I have as governor."

GOV. BROWN said he would sign the measure into law at a ceremony in his office today. (Thursday).

Previously the Assembly had approved the bill by a vote of 65 to 14.

ONE OF the most vital parts of Gov. Brown's program—dedication of the $172 million Investment Fund to the state-wide water development program—also won overwhelming approval in the Senate and Assembly.

The system will be three-pronged, running down along the coast into Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties, into Los Angeles County and along the so-called "high line" to Perris Reservoir to serve San Bernardino, Riverside and San Diego Counties.

APPROVAL OF the Investment Fund for the water program virtually assured action on Governor Brown's tax proposals, and the Assembly last week took the first steps in that direction.

It authorized a 3-cent tax on cigarettes (15 per cent on cigars and other tobacco), 45 to 34, and a measure to alter the method of computing income tax, 51 to 27.

The bills are key items in a tax program which Gov. Brown has proposed to offset an anticipated deficit of slightly more than $200 million in the 1959-60 fiscal year.

The tobacco tax is expected to bring in about $60 million in the next fiscal year and about $68 million in the following year. The income tax measure is expected to net about $70 million.

THE ASSEMBLY approved, 44 to 35, Gov. Brown's bill to establish a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour for most California workers and 90 cents an hour for farm workers.

The bill is the first in California's history which brings male workers under a minimum wage. Previously the Industrial Welfare Commission has been empowered to set minimums only for women.

Protest by farmers that they would be placed at an unfair competitive disadvantage with farmers from other states if the $1.25 figure applied to farm workers led Gov. Brown to agree to the 90-cent figure.

The governor also agreed to an amendment designed to allay the fears of farmers that the minimum wage would disrupt piece work systems of pay.

Student-Built Home Display

The 10th student-built model home at Pasadena City College will go on public display this week, where it will remain until May 20, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays included.

The model home is sponsored by the Pasadena-San Marino Chapter of the Building Contractors Association. It was designed in a competition sponsored by the Pasadena Architectural Club. Alterations were made by the PCC building construction class to meet training needs and to make possible the installation of many items contributed by industry.

THE BUILDING construction class, instructed by Dean T. Reinhold, has students from the San Gabriel Valley, Edwin Ower, 81 Auburn, is a member of the class.

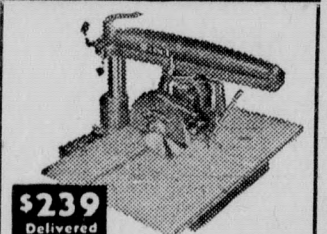

The 1959 home is described as 1,232 square feet of completely contemporary features, with wall to wall carpeting, and electrical throughout, and as "incorporating contemporary living scaled to mass America." Union records disclose that in the 10 years the class has been building model homes, 75 per cent of the graduates of the building construction class are now in lead positions in the trades, or are themselves licensed building contractors.

THE HOME is displayed, fully furnished by Foes Furniture, Pasadena. Sale of the home is by sealed bids to be opened May 26, 2 p.m., at the Division of Business Service, Education Center, 351 S. Hudson, Pasadena.

The home is on display on Sierra Bonita Street, on the eastern side of the PCC campus. For information on the bidding, Call SY 3-5111, Ext. 286, or SY 5-6961, Ext. 267.

Conelrad Drill . . .

CD to Test Emergency Radio System Friday

Almost all Southland television and radio stations will be off the air from 8:30 to 9 a.m. Friday, April 17, as part of a coast-to-coast test of CONELRAD, the nation's Civil Defense emergency broadcasting system. Special Civil Defense announcements will be beamed to the public on 640 and 1240 only throughout the period.

The CONELRAD drill will be conducted by the Federal Communications Commission and the U.S. Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization in cooperation with commercial broadcasting stations, a state, county and local civil defense organizations, according to Henry S. Eaton, coordinator, Region 1, California Disaster Office.

THE ONLY stations permitted to broadcast during the test will be the AM stations participating in the CONELRAD drill beamed from 640 and 1240 on the radio dial, Eaton stated. Emergency type non-commercial broadcasting systems such as fire, police and others essential to the public welfare will not be affected by the drill. Such systems are operated on specially assigned frequencies which cannot be heard on regular radio receivers.

No public participation in the CONELRAD drill is required, Eaton explained.

However, Southland residents are requested not to use their telephones to call local police or Civil Defense officials during the drill, but to turn their radio dials to 640 or 1240 where vital civil defense announcements will be broadcast throughout the full 30-minute period.

EMERGENCY announcements dealing with actual situations which could occur during the drill will be made as part of the program. In some communities local officials may choose to test their siren warning systems on April 17, Eaton explained, although the testing of local run.

siren systems is optional while participation of all radio and TV stations in the CONELRAD drill is mandatory in accordance with instructions from the FCC.

To insure success of the drill and to minimize confusion and telephone calls to local offices, Eaton urges each person to fully inform each member of his family, co-workers, friends and associates of this test and advise them to tune their radios to 640 and 1240 from 8:30 to 9 a.m. Friday, April 17.

St

City to Get $31,969 From State

SACRAMENTO, April 16 — California cities and counties, traditionally low on cash toward the end of the fiscal year, have been given a financial transfusion by the state, according to State Controller Alan Cranston.

Cranston said his office has apportioned $76,040,956 among the local governments to tide them over the forthcoming slack-revenue period.

The apportionment is $3,098,362 greater than last year's, Cranston said.

Half of the total—$38,020,478—goes to the state's 354 incorporated cities, the other half to the 58 counties.

Sierra Madre will receive $31,969; Pasadena, $449,286.

The apportionment is an advance distribution of 75 per cent of the estimated total of motor vehicle license fees which the state will collect during the six-month period ending May 31.

This month's apportionment is the second—and largest—of the three installment payments which the state will make to the cities and counties out of motor vehicle license revenues in the 1958-59 fiscal year, Cranston said.
